

Vocabulaire Nouvelle-Orléans

I remember this place → Je me souviens de cet endroit

It reminds me of San Diego → Cela me rappelle San Diego

A souvenir → Un souvenir (objet)

A memory → Un souvenir (dans la tête)

Amazing / incredible → Incroyable

Tasty → Savoureux

Scrumptious → Succulent

Crunchy / crusty → Croustillant

Lip-smacking → A s'en lécher les babines

Finger licking → A s'en lécher les doigts

Smells → les odeurs

Omniprésent → Omniprésent

All night long / all day long → Toute la nuit / journée

To spend → dépenser / passer du temps

Unforgettable / unbelievable → Inoubliable / invraisemblable

Strunning → époustouflant

To feel excited → Être exciter

The exciterant → L'élément excitateur

Article de blog sur la nouvelle orléans

Don't read this: I'll make you want to go to New Orleans...

Hello! In this article i give you my experience of my trip to New Orleans, Louisiana. I'll start to introduce myself: my name is Théodore and I love to travel I'm 20 year old and in 2019 I visited New Orleans, I like nature, partying, and eating, New Orleans the perfect place for me. If you like it all I can't give you some advice where to go.

First on leaving the airport, I take a taxi to go on my hotel. Through a window I see much restaurant and house typical on the New Orleans, you know the house with wood on the façade? I opened little bit my glass and I smell tasty come to my nose... I go to my hotel room and I was hungry. I decided to go back the restaurant around the ocean shore... I'm French so I decided to taste the French specialities of this restaurant. I entered in this restaurant and the spicy smell it's omnipresent... I was so excited to taste this Rockefeller the server gave me this and I tasted this... This is scrumptious, amazing! I took 3 Rockefeller and I went back on my hotel... Now I want to dance a little bit I left my bed, went on my phone and took Maps, I searched a place where I can dance and take my dinners... I found it, I called a taxi and I'm going there. Arrived at this bar I listen Cajun music... I was so much excited to dance! I entered on this bar and I decided to sit on the table... then a young woman, the twenties, invited me to dance "Tu viens danser?" with a big accent Cajun, I replied "Ha! tu parles français? comment tu t'appelles? Allez je suis partant pour danser" and she took my hand and replied "Je m'appelle Anna" and I danced with this woman all night long...

Next day I wanted to visit more New Orleans... I called with my phone Anna. With her I visited all the day the French quarter of New Orleans... went to the French market... to the restaurant... all the day. Its memory incredible...

The third day I need to take my plane for return in France... I'm so sad... in the plane I remember this 3 days spent in this beautiful city... the smell to finger licking... the dance... the colour... the people...

My journey it was short I hope to give you desire to discover more about the New Orleans...